

Francis X. Taylor

Francis X. Taylor
Vice President &
Chief Security Officer
The General Electric
Co.

- Bachelor's Degree, University of Notre Dame, 1970. Received Air Force commission as a Distinguished Graduate of the Notre Dame ROTC Program. Masters Degree, Government and International Studies, University of Notre Dame
- 31 years of military service rising to rank of Brigadier General
- Final assignment in military, Commander, Air Force Office of Special Investigations, Andrews AFB, MD.
- Served as the Assistant Secretary of State for Diplomatic Security and Director of the Office of Foreign Missions, with a rank of Ambassador, US Department of State, Washington, DC.
- Served as the US Ambassador at Large and Coordinator for Counterterrorism for the Department of State from July 2001 to November 2002
- After 9-11-01 attacks, key advisor in assisting the President Bush and Secretary of State Powell in forming the international coalition against terrorism.
- He joined GE on March 7, 2005.
- He and his wife Constance have three children